DEFINITIONS

TRAVEL SECURITY RISK RATING

Very high medical risk countries

High medical risk countries

Medium medical risk countries

Low medical risk countries

Rapidly developing variable risk countries

International SOS Assistance Centre

International SOS Response Centre

Clinic

The travel security risk rating evaluates the threat of violence (terrorist, criminal, and gang violence) and political stability (military intervention and civil unrest) in a defined geographical area.

Insignificant travel risk: There is no significant threat of violence to travellers. There are no special security procedures or travel restrictions in place.

Low travel risk: There is a low level of violence and no political instability. Travellers can travel with standard security precautions and no travel restrictions.

Medium travel risk: There is a medium level of violence and political instability. Travellers should be vigilant and follow standard security precautions.

High travel risk: There is a high level of violence and political instability. Travellers should be extremely vigilant and follow strict security precautions.

Extreme travel risk: There is a very high level of violence and political instability. Travellers should avoid all non-essential travel.

Global health and travel security risks review

The travel security risk rating evaluates the threat of violence (terrorist, criminal, and gang violence) and political stability (military intervention and civil unrest) in a defined geographical area.

Insignificant travel risk: There is no significant threat of violence to travellers. There are no special security procedures or travel restrictions in place.

Low travel risk: There is a low level of violence and no political instability. Travellers can travel with standard security precautions and no travel restrictions.

Medium travel risk: There is a medium level of violence and political instability. Travellers should be vigilant and follow standard security precautions.

High travel risk: There is a high level of violence and political instability. Travellers should be extremely vigilant and follow strict security precautions.

Extreme travel risk: There is a very high level of violence and political instability. Travellers should avoid all non-essential travel.

Global health and travel security risks review

The travel security risk rating evaluates the threat of violence (terrorist, criminal, and gang violence) and political stability (military intervention and civil unrest) in a defined geographical area.

Insignificant travel risk: There is no significant threat of violence to travellers. There are no special security procedures or travel restrictions in place.

Low travel risk: There is a low level of violence and no political instability. Travellers can travel with standard security precautions and no travel restrictions.

Medium travel risk: There is a medium level of violence and political instability. Travellers should be vigilant and follow standard security precautions.

High travel risk: There is a high level of violence and political instability. Travellers should be extremely vigilant and follow strict security precautions.

Extreme travel risk: There is a very high level of violence and political instability. Travellers should avoid all non-essential travel.

Global health and travel security risks review

The travel security risk rating evaluates the threat of violence (terrorist, criminal, and gang violence) and political stability (military intervention and civil unrest) in a defined geographical area.

Insignificant travel risk: There is no significant threat of violence to travellers. There are no special security procedures or travel restrictions in place.

Low travel risk: There is a low level of violence and no political instability. Travellers can travel with standard security precautions and no travel restrictions.

Medium travel risk: There is a medium level of violence and political instability. Travellers should be vigilant and follow standard security precautions.

High travel risk: There is a high level of violence and political instability. Travellers should be extremely vigilant and follow strict security precautions.

Extreme travel risk: There is a very high level of violence and political instability. Travellers should avoid all non-essential travel.

Global health and travel security risks review

The travel security risk rating evaluates the threat of violence (terrorist, criminal, and gang violence) and political stability (military intervention and civil unrest) in a defined geographical area.

Insignificant travel risk: There is no significant threat of violence to travellers. There are no special security procedures or travel restrictions in place.

Low travel risk: There is a low level of violence and no political instability. Travellers can travel with standard security precautions and no travel restrictions.

Medium travel risk: There is a medium level of violence and political instability. Travellers should be vigilant and follow standard security precautions.

High travel risk: There is a high level of violence and political instability. Travellers should be extremely vigilant and follow strict security precautions.

Extreme travel risk: There is a very high level of violence and political instability. Travellers should avoid all non-essential travel.